FutureChurch is a national coalition of parish-based Catholics who seek the full participation of all baptized Catholics in the life of the Church. Inspired by Vatican II, its supporters recognize that Eucharistic Celebration (the Mass) is the core of Catholic worship and sacramental life. FutureChurch respects the tradition of the Roman Catholic Church. It advocates widespread discussion of the need to open ordination to all baptized Catholics who are called to priestly ministry by God and the people of God and seeks to participate in formulating and expressing the Sensus Fidelium (the Spirit inspired beliefs of the faithful) through open, prayerful and enlightened dialogue among Catholics. It advocates for optional celibacy and advancing the roles of women in the Church as well as educating about and celebrating the witness of women, historical and Biblical, to the faith.

Supporters include middle to upper income laity, priests, nuns and brothers, deeply committed to the spirit of Vatican II and to the Church's teachings on justice. They are progressive, well-educated, well-read, interested in continuing education about religion and spirituality, involved in their parishes as well as in civic and social justice activities.

These active lay and religious leaders are responsive to books, magazines, newsletters and tapes, fundraising, workshops, seminars, gift and religious items, and political activist mailings.
